

Precarious

HOPE MOHR DANCE

Precarious, a walking tour and dance performance, begins on the sidewalk in front of 443 Folsom and ends at CounterPulse. The first part of the event is a labor history walking tour that will focus on the history of bodies at work in the Mid-Market neighborhood. The second part of the event will be a performance at CounterPulse in the heart of the Tenderloin.

This is what SF/Arts curator Heather Desaulniers had to say about Precarious :

This year, Hope Mohr Dance marks a huge milestone: a decade of creative collaboration and boundary-pushing artmaking. "Precarious"—a world premiere co-production with CounterPulse—is a full-length multi-discipline work that uses movement, music, video, visuals and sound to explore the issue of gentrification and of the live/work space crisis in San Francisco.
